

NZ5 DAMN THE DAM, John Hanlon, 1973 .

INTRO: G Em Bm E (line 1 of verse)

VERSE 1

G Em Bm Em
Leaf falls to kiss the image of a mountain,
G Em Am
the early morning mist has ceased to play.
C D G Em
Birds dancing lightly on the branches by a fountain
C D G
of a waterfall which dazzles with its spray.

VERSE 2

G Em Bm Em
Tall and strong and aged, contented and serene,
G Em Am
the kauri tree surveys this grand domain.
C D G Em
For miles and miles around him, a sea of rolling green.
C D G
Tomorrow all this beauty won't remain.

CHORUS C D Damn the dam cried the fantail, G B7 E as he flew into, as he flew into the sky. To give slow F G C Am Em power to the people all this beauty has to die.

VERSE 3

G Em Bm Em
Rain falls from above and splashes on the ground,
G Em Am
goes running down the mountain to the sea
C D G Em

and leaping over pebbles makes such a joyful sound.

C D G
Such is Mother Nature's gift to me.

VERSE 4

G Em Bm Em
I have grave reflection, reflection of a grave.
G Em Am
Trees that once lived green now dead and brown.
C D G Em
The homes of tiny animals and little birds as well
C D G
for the sake of man's progression have been drowned.

CHORUS C D
Damn the dam cried the fantail,
G B7 E
as he flew into, as he flew into the sky.
To give slow

F G C Am Em
power to the people all this beauty has to die.
